

Police Stand Guard As 1st National Moves

The "bad guys" wouldn't have had a chance if they had tried to take advantage of the moving of the First National Bank last Wednesday to grab a few bags full of loot.

The unknown observer might have thought Antioch was expecting an armed invasion, to judge by the police liberally spotted along Main St. and Lake St. State troopers, county police and Antioch police stood ready, some with rifles, some with shotguns.

The First National finished moving without incident. Fortunately, the police had no occasion to use the weapons they carried. Money, safety deposit boxes, records and all were moved from the southwest corner of Lake and Main to the new home on the northwest corner.

Executive vice president LaVerne Woods, vice president Walter Daniels and Cashier Dale Starkey donned working clothes for the day and carried bags of money from one location to the other. Moving day started about 7 a.m. and was completed late in the afternoon.

The First National Bank opened at its new location Thursday morning, with the new TV drive-up window operating and being demonstrated.

The interior of the bank has been completely remodeled, as has the upstairs departments. The teller's cages are almost in the center of the lobby, facing north. Congratulatory floral pieces sent by friends and businesses are dotted around the new lobby.

The bank has announced that their new credit card system will be operating about November 1.

New A&P Sets Date For Grand Opening

So Sorry, ladies. The new A & P Store, opening next Tuesday in the Antioch Shopping Plaza, will not boast wall-to-wall carpeting.

However, it is one of the A & P's Prestige Stores, the fourth in the U. S. There will be elegant chandeliers, plus indirect lighting; wide aisles, with each aisle clearly marked as to products; a customer's lounge, with free coffee, rest rooms, and a number of other attractive features.

The wall-to-wall carpeting has been tried in the other Prestige stores and found wanting. Tony Kaiser, Supervisor of seventeen stores in this area, says it was found that it was difficult to push the shopping carts on carpeting, and that a broken jar of honey or bleach presented quite a problem. So Antioch A & P settled for tile, with red tile in the bakery department.

Customers enter the store from either the east or west sides of the front lobby, there's a drive-up lane at the front of the store where customers can pick up their groceries.

Grand Opening Day for the A & P is Tuesday, October 18.

License Suspended

The office of Secretary of State Paul Powell has announced the suspension of the driver's license of Buford A. Shepard, Antioch, following three violations.

EXTRA CARE, PLEASE!

Antioch's Fire Chief Todd Maples reports that fifteen grass fires since last Wednesday morning have kept the Antioch Fire Department hopping.

Todd asks that people be especially careful during the dry weather, particularly with the high winds that have prevailed. "Simply don't light fires," he says. "And don't throw cigarettes out of cars."

A few of the fires, Todd says, have been intentionally started, presumably by teenagers. The fires are dangerous and difficult to keep under control under present conditions.

To Explain Bank Charge Card

William E. Brook, president of the State Bank of Antioch, has invited retail merchants and business men to attend a breakfast being given by the bank at Lorenz's Smart Country House on Friday, October 14, at 8 a.m. The benefits and operation of Town and Country Charge, an all purpose charge card plan, will be explained at this time.

Last week Mr. Brook announced his bank's participation in this plan and the bank is now seeking the membership of retail merchants and business men who want to take advantage of this plan and join the many who have already enrolled.

Mr. Brook said the Town and Country plan offers many important benefits to participating merchants; one of the major benefits being an expected increase in sales volume resulting from a new market for credit sales. Also stressed is the fact that the merchant receives immediate credit, without recourse, upon deposit of his sales slips.

A shopper's guide listing the merchants who belong to the Town and Country Charge will be mailed to all card-holders for their convenience. It is estimated that more than one and a half million shoppers will be using this new service by the first of the year. Town and Country will handle all details, assume all operational responsibility, and will provide all necessary forms and promotional materials.

State, county and Antioch police guarded the valuables while the First National Bank of Antioch moved last Wednesday. State Trooper L. W. Lynn and Sheriff's Deputy James Hession had their guns at the ready while bags of money were carried into the new bank.

The classes run from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. each Thursday. The first class was held last Thursday, with 27 persons attending. "We have a good class, quite a few housewives," instructor Dan Dugenski commented. "It's a good course for housewives to take."

The standard course runs six weeks. If enough people in the class wish to go on to Advanced Instruction, the course will run ten weeks.

The First Aid class is sponsored by Red Cross, who have declared October First Aid month. Among other things, the course covers frostbite, burns, electric shock, poisoning and simple fractures. Artificial respiration is included in the training.

Retire From Duties With Rescue Squad Fund

Two men who have worked with the Rescue Squad, for seventeen years, on the financial end, regrettably resigned their posts recently.

Loren D. Sexauer and Edwin J. Sletten took over the job of handling the Rescue Squad funds in 1949, and both have stayed on the job ever since. They're both members of the Lions Club, of course. The Antioch Lions Club took over the task of raising funds for the Rescue Squad in 1946.

The two men submitted letters of resignation at the Sept. 26 Lions Club meeting. Mr. Sexauer told his fellow Lions that he had been retired from active business for a year, and had recently had surgery on his leg, necessitating his resignation.

Mr. Sletten recently retired from his position as vice president of the First National Bank.

Lions President William Seemann has since appointed two men to assume the duties of the positions formerly held by Mr. Sexauer and Mr. Sletten. Richard Daniel, vice president of the State Bank of Antioch, will take Mr. Sletten's place as secretary and treasurer of the Rescue Squad Fund; John Romer, who took over the Loren Sexauer Agency upon Mr. Sexauer's retirement a year ago, will be chairman of the fund.

Handling the Rescue Squad fund required a great deal of paper work, for which the two men have been responsible for 17 years. All donations were turned over to Mr. Sletten. He had receipt books, with stubs. A receipt was given or mailed to each donor, carrying his name, the date and the amount of the donation. Duplicate stubs are made out carrying the same information, which Mr. Sletten kept for his records.

From these stubs are compiled lists of donors which Loren Sexauer regularly turned over to the Antioch News for publication and of which he kept copies in his files.

The work was especially heavy during the annual Rescue Squad drive for funds. Letters requesting donations are generally mailed out to everyone in the area in July. Mr. Sexauer and his office staff used to handle most of this job themselves. Of late years, Rescue Squad members took the envelopes and letters to the Rescue Squad building and "stuffed" most of them themselves.

President Bill Seemann, commenting on the resignation of the two men, said: "I can only thank them for seventeen years of hard work and service. It will be hard to fill their shoes."

Sandy Pyles Crowned Homecoming Queen Sat.

Saturday's Homecoming events at Antioch Community High School were climaxed by the last-minute victory of the football team and the crowning of the Queen at Saturday night's dance.

Homecoming weekend started off with a bonfire and pep rally at the high school Friday night followed by a sock hop.

Saturday morning at 10:30 a.m. was the Homecoming Parade, with thirty units traveling down Main Street from the High School to Orchard Street, down Orchard to Broadway, Broadway to Lake, Lake to Victoria and back to the school.

The Senior float took first prize in the parade, with the Juniors taking second, freshmen third and sophomores fourth. The Art Club, with two fetching puppets dancing about, took first in student club floats.

The Spanish Club took first place in the Student Club Cars. The Jaycees won first for Business and Civic floats.

All of the winners will receive plaques. Judges were Mrs. Ray Lorenz, Mrs. Phillip Vos, Mrs. Robert Lubkeman, Bill Wilton and Dale Starkey.

The Lake Villa Grade School Band performed in the parade, and Warren Polley, in charge of the arrangements, expressed his gratitude to the Band to the Lake Villa Rescue Squad and Fire Department, also the Antioch Rescue Squad and Fire Department for joining the parade.

Sandy Pyles was named Queen of the Homecoming. This year, the Queen was announced Saturday morning so that she could reign throughout the festivities. Sandy was crowned as a highlight of Saturday night's Homecoming Dance. The Blue Notes supplied the music at the dance.

The stands were crowded for Saturday afternoon's football game, and alumni got their money's worth as they watched a tight football game between two determined teams. Warm, sunny weather throughout the weekend helped to bring out large crowds for both the parade and the game.

Take Care

Grass fires are plaguing the Antioch Fire Department. Almost daily the siren sounds, and the Fire Department rushes out to halt the spread of a fire.

The long drought is contributing mightily to the start and spread of fires. Few people seem to realize just how dry it is. It's the season to clean up yards, people start to burn trash, and before they know it, a fire has started where it was not intended to be.

Many fire calls are expensive, of course. But in addition to the expense, Todd Mapletorpe points out that every time the fire truck dashes out to respond to a call, the men run the risk of being injured. Fortunately, it doesn't happen often, but the risk is always there.

Fires usually result from someone's carelessness. The best rule to follow during this extremely dry weather, is "don't burn anything outside." Even sparks from an incinerator can start a fire.

If you MUST burn, use your garden hose to water down surrounding areas, keep it handy in case fire spreads, and watch the fire till it's out.

Don't drop burning cigarettes if you're out walking in the fields or woods.

So far, the Fire Department has been able to control the fires. Some windy day, they may not be able to, and a lot of property could be destroyed. Or someone could be hurt.

So be careful. Wait for a rain before burning trash. These are unusual times and call for unusual care.

Courthouse Notebook

BY LOU DURKIN

Waukegan Mayor Robert Sabonjian surprised a lot of people, including this reporter when he announced he would seek election to the U. S. Senate as an Independent write-in candidate.

Despite his protestations, however, Sabonjian is too much of a political realist to suppose that he can overcome the huge advantages already gained by Sen. Paul H. Douglas, who is seeking his fourth term, and Republican nominee Charles Percy.

Unquestionably Sabonjian has captured the imagination and fancy of thousands of Illinois voters and should be a major factor in the Senate race, but the mechanics of a write-in campaign at the state level would seem to be too much to overcome in the short time remaining.

The outspoken Waukegan mayor has asserted repeatedly that he is in the race to win and is thinking only about the present race, but it is only natural that he should also be looking ahead to when he might run as a bona fide candidate on a party ticket with all the organization help such a position provides.

The question bugging most political observers centers on which candidate Sabonjian will hurt and which he will aid by getting into the race. It is reasonable to suppose that he will continue to make Sen. Douglas his primary target which could force the venerable solon to alter his campaign strategy and thereby lose valuable ground.

If Sabonjian pulls a respectable vote it will, if nothing else, prompt other public officials to take a new look at the civil rights programs and perhaps induce them to speak more bluntly and more directly on all subjects in the future.

It is a great relief to know the Lake County Civic League has put its seal of approval on the new budget being proposed by the Finance Committee of the Lake County Board of Supervisors.

Particularly since some "cuts" were apparently made in the budgets submitted by some departments.

There is a nagging feeling, however, that some of the budgets were inflated so reductions would look good in published reports.

The feeling persists that increased revenues for the county—from fees, building permits, sales tax and other non-tax sources could be matched with reductions in direct taxes on property, but apparently there is no way to satisfy the ever-increasing demands for more public services by the public.

It is strange, though, that the demands for economy and tax cutbacks always seem to be louder and clearer than any "demands" for more services to everybody except those responsible for spending the money.

It appears that Lake County, despite a last minute effort by State Senator Robert Coulson and John Matijevich, Democratic candidate for State Representative, will miss out on one of the proposed state universities to be built in the near future.

It is regrettable that Sen. Coulson did not try to enlist some organized support six months or a year ago instead of waiting until the eve of the final public hearings.

These hearings make interesting window dressing, but it is rare indeed that a public body, once committed to a course of action, can be induced to change its mind on the basis of evidence introduced at a later date.

Lake County has a great deal to offer in support of its contention that a college should be located here, but it is in the position of the many communities competing for new industries.

Your Congressman Reports...

By Cong. Robert McClory

An issue which is almost certain to raise a storm of controversy during the closing weeks of this session of Congress concerns the calling up of reserve personnel of our armed forces.

The subject has been under study by a subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee in connection with possible amendments to the draft laws. However, the subcommittee has not planned to file its report until next year.

Meanwhile, the Senate tacked on a provision to the military appropriation bill authorizing the president to call up 472,000 reservists had not yet completed 24 months of active duty. This provision was rejected by the House.

The latest plan, contained in a House bill (H.R. 17195), would permit the President, without the necessity of declaring a national emergency, to call up about 133,000 reservists who have had less than four months' training. These individuals would be subject to two years of active duty—including possible service in Viet Nam. An additional 64,000 individual reservists, who do not occupy specific positions in organized reserve units, would also be subject to call under the House proposal. The House passed this measure, by a resounding 332 to 6 vote.

One of the main features of the House passed bill is that it would leave organized reserve units intact. Most of those persons called up would have had little or no training. The plan would avoid the breaking up, or "cannibalizing" of the organized Ready Reserve.

Still, there are bound to be many complaints from reservists (and parents) who considered that any individual reserve status could avoid active military service except in the event of a national emergency. As can be seen under the House bill, most reservists will continue to enjoy an exemption from active service while as many as 197,000 may be called for two years of active duty.

The charge is made that the reserve system has enabled many to avoid the compulsion of the draft. However, the changes proposed by the House would affect only a small percentage of the total of more than one million reservists—and none of those who serve in the states' National Guard Organizations.

The Administration and the Senate appear to be strongly opposed to the House plan. At the same time, the House members appear to be quite adamant in support of the plan. The Senate proposal to call up 472,000 reservists was rejected in the House by a vote of 378 to 3. As indicated the House subsequently endorsed its own plan by a decisive 332 to 6 margin.

A battle between the House and Senate giants on this issue appears to be in the making.

Homecoming

The weatherman came thru in fine style for the weekend's festivities. Due to dry weather the bonfire wasn't too large, but the crowd certainly had the spirit. Main street was so mobbed with people you could hardly see the parade, and the rip-roaring football game ended up in a close 14-13 win over Round Lake. Congratulations to Sandy Pyles, who was crowned queen Saturday evening to bring a close to the festivities.

Proclaims Plant Illinois Week

Governor Otto Kerner has proclaimed October 8 to 15 as Plant Illinois Week to encourage the planting of trees, shrubs and other flowering and foliage plants to enhance the natural beauty of the state.

In his official statement, Governor Kerner extended his congratulations to the members of the Illinois State Nurserymen's Association for their role in the beautification effort.

The October week was chosen by the nurserymen's group to remind Illinois residents that fall is an excellent time to plant. Trees and shrubs transplanted now while dormant will have a longer period in which to become adjusted to a new environment before the active growing season arrives.

Only modern electric heat is as clean as the sun

Electric heat is unlike any other type of home heating. It's flameless—it burns no fuel, and it keeps your whole home cleaner, more comfortable. And because an electrically-heated home stays clean longer, wall washing and redecorating are kept to a minimum.

With electric heat, you can pick the type of heat you want. There are 5 basic types of flameless electric heating equipment. Depending on your heating requirements, one system may be used separately, or several may be teamed together.

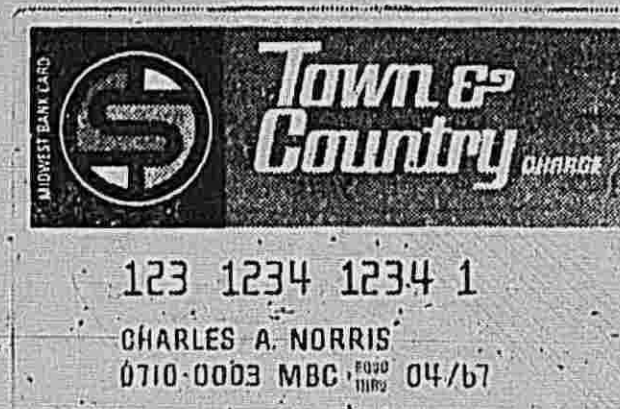

If you're planning a new home or thinking of converting your present heating system, check into electric heat. You'll find that it's the most modern, convenient type of home heat today. And it's clean.

For more information about electric heating, call our nearest office.

By Del Jahneke

The Ray Rathmann family, Oakwood Knolls, enjoyed the hospitality of the Norman Jascinski family of Roselle, Ill., on Sunday, October 2. Mrs. Jascinski is Mr. Rathmann's sister.

Miss Janet Balsamello, Beach Grove, was guest of honor at a bridal shower, given for her by Mrs. Joseph Danae, her aunt. Fifty women attended this party, which was held recently in Mrs. Danae's home. White crepe paper wedding bells, with white and pink streamers were an appropriate background for the "bridal table." This table held four Barbys, dressed as the bride, bridegroom, and two bridesmaids, with a towering white "tower" wedding cake, as the main centerpiece. A dinner preceded the shower, after which Miss Balsamello received many beautiful and useful gifts. This was Miss Balsamello's second bridal shower. Mrs. James Rizzo, Mrs. Joseph Danae and Mrs. James Scolla hosted a party for Janet, at the Chateau Royale in Chicago, for some 55 friends and relatives, at an earlier date.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jahneke, Beach Grove, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Ide of Downers Grove, were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Haase of Winnetka, Tuesday, Oct. 4.

During the evening, the Haases showed some of their many colored slides of their four month tour of Europe. Mr. Haase told them of his happiness for a dinner given in his honor, by the Illinois Bankers' Association, honoring his fifty years as a Banker, 34 of which time, he was President of the First National Bank of Winnetka. He has been Chairman of the Board the last two years.

Mr. Haase is the uncle of Mrs. Ide and Mrs. Jahneke. The employees of the Fascination Beauty Salon gave a uniquely different, but most delightful bridal shower for Miss Rita Johnson, who is also a beautician at the Fascination Salon. Before the shower, some fifty friends and customers had been contributing $5 and $11 Green Stamp books. At the party, held at Paty's Lounge, they were then able to present Miss Johnson with a TV set, plus some 22 Green Stamp books, for her to make any other selections she would care to. In addition, each guest also brought a gift for the kitchen, ranging from some small kitchen utensil, to attractive larger kitchen items. Miss Johnson was a radiant bride when she became the bride of Mr. John Specht, on Saturday, October 1, at St. Peter's Catholic Church, in Antioch.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Lichter of Antioch are the happy parents of a baby daughter, Jill Denise, born October 1, at Victory Memorial Hospital, weighing in at 8 lbs. 5 oz. Little Jill is the first girl born in the Lichter family in 25 years. The Lichters also have a son, Danny, to help welcome the newcomer. Mrs. Lichter is the former Sherri Davis. Maternal grandparents are the LaMonte Davis's of Bluff Lake and the paternal grandparents are the Roy Lichters of Antioch.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kohout of Boise, Idaho, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kennedy, Sr., of Antioch. Mrs. Kohout is Mr. Kennedy's sister. Mr. Kohout, a Notre Dame graduate, took the opportunity of seeing two Notre Dame football games, during their visit here. The Kohouts also saw other family members in New York and Detroit.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

Atonement as the day-by-day effort to yield one's life to obedience to the laws of God is the theme of this week's Lesson-Sermon titled "Doctrine of Atonement" to be read in all Christian Science branch churches this Sunday.

Jesus' words, "If ye love me, keep my commandments," from the fourteenth chapter of John, are related to this explanation from the denominational text-book: "The Christ was the Spirit which Jesus implied in his own statements: 'I am the way, the truth, and the life.' 'I and my Father are one.' This Christ, or divinity of the man Jesus, was his divine nature, the godliness which animated him" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures) by Mary Baker Eddy.

The Lesson-Sermon consists of citations from the Bible and from the denominational textbook.

Sequoits Last-Minute Drive Brings Victory

It looked like the second loss in a row for Roy Nelson's Sequoits last Saturday — and for Antioch's Homecoming, at that. Round Lake's Panthers were in charge for three quarters, and the score was Round Lake 13, Antioch 7 going in to the final quarter.

Then Bill Sheldon intercepted a pass on his own 3-yard line, and the Sequoits started charging down the field. Ty Walls carried the ball ten out of the eleven carries it took to run it across Round Lake's goal line and tie up the score. Walls plunged across for the PAT, too, and Antioch had snatched victory from what looked like defeat.

Whitson carried the ball once on the march down the field. All told Walls carried the ball 35 times in the game and gained 245 yards rushing.

Round Lake quickly scored the first touchdown of the game on a 55-yard pass play from Bob Peterson to Tom Wittum. Both teams scored in the second quarter — Round Lake on a 1-yard plunge by Gary Bell, Antioch on a 9-yard run by Quarterback Jerry Whitson. Walls carried the ball across for the PAT, and the score stood 13-7 at halftime.

The win put Antioch in a three-way tie for second place with a 2-1 record. The Sequoits will face Wauconda at Wauconda next Saturday. It'll be Wauconda's Homecoming, after a loss to Grayslake last week with a score of 27-14.

"Walls and Whitson were outstanding," Coach Roy Nelson said. "Steve Loblillo was in there opening holes and doing a good job defensively, too. Dan Smith, a junior did a good job on offense. Tom Barnett, another junior, was right in there; Sheldon did his usual good job, and Larry Davis, Joe Pass and Carl Jennerich were others who helped to win the game."

Ty Walls earned recognition as Back of the Week in the Waukegan News Sun for his performance in Saturday's game.

It was Homecoming for Antioch, and it was a sad and weary bunch of sophomores that trudged off the field at the end of the game.

Coach Andy Hauptmann was unhappy with his team's performance. He said, "We had a lot of injuries in the Lake Forest game and our practices for Saturday's game were very limited. But I must say that the desire to win was not there Saturday and we did not come to play football."

Five Antioch boys suffered injuries in the Lake Forest game. Ralph Zaneck acquired a bad knee; Don Gaa was kicked in the back; Charles Hollecker, bad ankle; Jim Shore, thigh injury, and Don Effinger, a sprained ankle. As a result, the squad had no contact practice in the week preceding the game. Both Hollecker and Gaa were re-injured in last Saturday's game.

Antioch's only touchdown came in the second quarter. At half time the score was 13-7.

Antioch's Sophs will be looking for their third victory in five starts next Saturday when they travel to Wauconda. The sophs started the season with two wins, gave one to Lake Forest, and lost Saturday's game to Round Lake.

Wauconda defeated Grayslake's sophomores 55-0 last week. Saturday will be Wauconda's Homecoming. "I just hope our boys can rise to the occasion," Hauptmann said.

Sequoit Harriers Undeclared

Antioch High's Cross Country squad defeated Round Lake in a meet Thursday, Oct. 6, with Antioch scoring 15 points and Round Lake 49.

The harriers won another victory Tuesday, Oct. 11, against Wauconda's runners with a score of Wauconda 46, Antioch 17.

Antioch's victories came in spite of the loss of their leading runner, Blaine Backman, out with a sore leg. Bill Effinger came through for Antioch to win Thursday's meet, while Tom Doolittle led the pack Tuesday.

Other runners who helped Antioch score in both meets were Bob Biaggi, Chuck Denman, Tim Mair and Mike Polley.

The varsity has a 10-0 record with the season drawing to a close in the next few weeks.

SOPHOMORES

The sophomores have lost one meet this season so far, and have a 9-1 record. They won their meet with Round Lake last Thursday, Round Lake 48, Antioch 15.

Tuesday's meet with Wauconda, 47, Antioch, 16. Clarence Archer led the field in both meets, with Gary Doolittle and Don Jackson contributing to the winning score.

Today (Thursday) the harriers will be running against the Lake Forest squads, and Saturday they'll be at Zion. The last home meet of the season will be next Tuesday, against McHenry.

Sophs Lose To Round Lake, 25-7

Antioch's sophomore grid-ers suffered their second defeat in as many weeks last Saturday, as Round Lake scored 25 points to Antioch's 7.

Cossmann Late Model Champ

Recently crowned late model season's champ, Jim Cossmann, showed his championship form Saturday night at the Waukegan Speedway, setting fast time, winning his heat race, and then outdistancing eighteen cars in the 35-mile lap feature. Waukegan will close the season next Saturday night with a 50-lap late model feature and other attractions.

Summary, Oct. 8

Fastest qualifier — Jim Cossmann

Trophy Dash — Dennis Burgan, Dean Jordan, Cossmann, First heat — Roger Topp; Ed Hoffman, Jerry Learsch

Second heat — Jim Cossmann, Dennis Burgan, Harold Gutche

Third heat — Ron Justen; Dean Jordan; John Schmitz; Powder Puff — Cora Morton

Feature, 35 laps — Jim Cossmann, Dennis Burgan, Jack Ester, Harold Gutche, Willie Winchester, Al Gutche, Norm Zenko

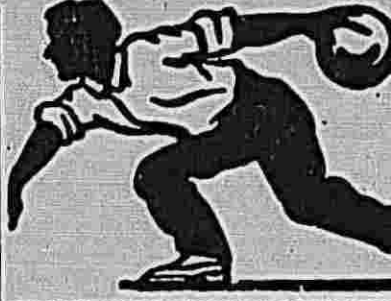

Demolition — Len Curtiss

Ray Busch held the lead for two laps before Ed Hoffman took over. The race was stopped in the fourth lap with Ron Justen crossed up on the track. Justen was re-started and took the lead in the seventh, but a series of accidents opened the door for Dennis Burgan to shoot from fifth spot to first in the next lap.

Burgan was just ahead of Cossmann when a slower car blocked. Burgan just long enough for Jim to roar by on the outside groove. Two laps later Justen, running third, dropped out and it was strictly a two car race from then on.

Cossmann was the master of the situation and wheeled around the hard clay oval in commanding fashion for the rest of the race. The red flag did fly with ten laps remaining as Bush and Jerry Learsch slammed into the homestretch wall.

The excitement started early as Al Lucas crashed into the backstretch wall and then somersaulted over onto his hood, sliding down the

NICC Turkey Shoot Sunday

By Harry H. Stern

The Northern Illinois Conservation Club will hold their fifth annual Autumn Turkey Shoot Sunday, October 16th, starting at 10 a.m. Tender young turkeys, ducks, rock cornish hens and chickens will be the sought after prizes which will be awarded the winning shotgunners.

In past years this shoot has generated war-like rivalry between the various blunder-buss gangs, and this shoot is showing no signs of not following the same pattern. Word filtered through the bushes to shoot chairman Joe Menheer, Grayslake, has it the Haling Gang from Grass Lake is planning to waylay the shoot and carry home the meat, but similar rumblings out of the north has Bill Brook leading his Deer Lake Demons out to do a little waylaying of their own; but smart money is on the McHenry Sportsmen's Gang, who are all primed on shooting up the whole kit and kaboodle and carrying off the works, including turkeys, scalps, women and children, and everything else of value.

Practice shooting will be on tap from 10 to 11 a.m. for nimrods whose shooting eyes have gone rusty. From 11 a.m. on, all the shooting will be for blood (meat).

Ladies of the NICC will be on hand in the club house serving hot and cold refreshments. Ammunition too, at popular prices, will be available to gunners who do not bring their own.

Parking space is ample to take care of all contestants and hecklers who show up at the NICC grounds which are 3 miles west of Antioch on Route 173. All of the net proceeds will be used for conservation and youth education.

Forget that Gas is cheaper.

Remember—a Gas room heater turns added rooms, basements, and garages into warm, livable areas.

Does your home shrink in size every winter because the enclosed breezeway, basement, attic, added-on family room is not heated? Any room that's not heated can be made warm and usable in any weather by a modern, easy-to-install gas room heater. You'll be surprised how much your table-tennis backyard will improve when you have a gas room heater installed in your extra play space. Your disposition, too, will improve when you convert a cold-storage area into a warm safe place for the kids to romp and stomp in. You can even heat your garage with a self-contained gas heater and get started right on bitter winter mornings. The compact new decorator styled models are thermostatically controlled, and vent through any outside wall. Air for the sealed combustion chamber is drawn entirely from outdoors. See your heating contractor or call Northern Illinois Gas Company and keep your home from shrinking in cold weather.

Ben Shostak with part of his decoy display at the State Bank of Antioch.

He Hunts Ducks, Live And Decoys

Collectors are as many and varied as the articles they collect. But they all seem to have some qualities in common: dogged persistence, a deep appreciation of craftsmanship or artistry.

and a love for the chase.

The State Bank of Antioch has been using the display window in the outer lobby of the bank to display portions of the collections of some local collectors. A gun display garnered from the collections of Jack Wells and Bill Wilton was the first venture. Latest display is some of the finest examples from Ben Shostak's collection of decoys.

Ben operates the Pine Lodge at Petite Lake during the summer. During the fall and winter he spends a good deal of time hunting wild fowl, both live and decoys.

He became a collector by chance. Through his love for hunting, he naturally acquired many friends who were hunters. Some of them also collected decoys.

He helped his collector friends by turning over to them decoys that came to his attention. Finally, he decided to start a collection of his own.

That was about five years ago. Now he has a collection of about 300 decoys that he treasures, with a reserve pile of about 200 "junkers", decoys in which he has no interest.

Ben's "junkers" pile often provides material for trades. In addition to the recognized "prize pieces" from the hands of well-known artisans, many collectors are particularly interested in specific types of decoys.

Ben has no interest in primitives, crudely carved wildfowl which some collectors treasure. He likes the graceful, beautifully carved and colored examples of the decoy-makers' art. So primitives, and other decoys that fail to interest him, are fuel for trading.

Part of the fun of collecting, Ben points out, is the "horse trading" that goes on between collectors. There are about 300 serious decoy collectors in the U. S. and he corresponds regularly with about 250 of them.

Word gets around that a collector has a certain item, perhaps one he covets. So Ben, knowing the type that interests this collector, takes a picture of one or more of the decoys he has for trade, and sends it to the collector. The other collector does the same, sending a photo of his prize. And the jockeying is on, with each trying to "trade up" to get more than he gives.

When the trade is completed, each is probably convinced that he got the best of the deal. And perhaps each did, for each has different interests, and duplicates of many items.

Ben likes old decoys, samples of the work of early artisans who were masters in their field. In those days, commercial hunters provided a big demand for decoys. Thoroughly unsportsmanlike, they even sneaked up on sleeping flocks of ducks and used seven-barrel battery guns to slaughter meat.

Legislation ended this type of hunting in the 1920's, and forced all the decoy manufacturers out of business. So samples of decoys manufactured by each of these companies is of value.

Those early decoys were made of wood, some hollow, some solid. Ben prefers the hollow type. To anyone but a hunter, the decoys were a space-taking nuisance, and many treasures ended up in bonfires. "I travel all over looking for 'decoys,'" Ben says. "When I knock on a door, and an old man comes to the door, I know I may hit pay dirt. If a young man answers, I might as well be on my way, for when a man passes his decoys on to his son, the son invariably burns them."

Decoys are now made of plastic or styrofoam. They're actually better and cheaper, but not of interest to most collectors.

Ben likes teal and mudhen decoys, most of all. The mudhen is a "confidence" decoy, much used by earlier hunters. Their use gave a natural appearance which gave the duck assurance that this was a safe spot to come winging in to feed or rest.

Modern hunters don't make an art of putting out decoys as their fathers did, Ben points out. They don't have to. Their guns and ammunition are so much more effective that they don't have to lure the ducks in that close. Also they are not hunting for a living, and bagging a fowl isn't the difference between meat on the table tonight or going hungry.

Decoys made by men now living have no real value to the collector but are sometimes added to their possessions because of fine work or some oddity. Every collector probably has some odd pieces, which he keeps because they intrigue him. One such that Ben has is a wood duck, a sleeper, made of wood that sinks. Put in water, the decoy promptly sinks. Why, Ben has never figured out. Perhaps, for some obscure reason, the maker inserted lead in a hollow decoy. Ben has never opened it to find out.

Some of the decoys on display at the State Bank are the finest examples of the decoy-makers' art. The dates given are the dates when the respective decoy makers were known to be practicing their trade. The names of the makers, or dates, are never on the decoys. Collectors recognize the distinctive marks of individual carvers, or companies, and the dates they were in operation are known.

These are part of the display: a black duck by Harry Shourdes, about 1900. A mallard hen and drake by Bert Graves, 1930.

MOTC Convention In October

The "Y" Mothers of Twins Club is one of 23 clubs throughout the state making up the Illinois Organization of Mothers of Twins Clubs, Inc., which will send delegates to the state convention in mid October. Announcement has been made that their session will be at the Holiday Inn East in Springfield, Illinois, October 14-16.

The purpose of the organization is that mothers of twins may join together socially and educationally to exchange information pertaining to the rearing, development and individuality of twins which may be forthcoming from parents, doctors, educators and other appropriate sources.

Mrs. James McLaren, 2200 Kingston Road, Waukegan, is first vice president of the state organization and may be contacted for information on location of the various clubs or how to organize one in a new locality.

A pair of wood ducks by the Tru-Dux Co. Only 18 decoys were made by this particular company, and the other 16 are held by members of the company.

A hooded merganser duck by Hoerter.

A greenwing teal by Weeks, a living carver.

A pair of passenger pigeons. The passenger-pigeon is now extinct.

A crude primitive on display, labeled W. E. Brook, is a slight falsification. Not really carved by President Bill, who is himself a collector of decorative decoys, Ben inserted it as a joke.

Each area and each carver had distinctive styles, that help the collector to identify them. Some produced decoys with small bodies and vice versa. Others had distinctive styles of painting.

Most decoys were made for a utilitarian purpose, definitely made to be used. The ones now treasured by collectors were made by men with talent who took pride in their work.

Many of these treasures of early Americana are lost forever, but many will be preserved on collector's shelves, thanks to men like Ben

Republicans Launch "Housewives Rebellion"

The Lake County Republican Central Committee launched a county-wide "Housewives Rebellion" last week when women leaders met at Illinois Beach State Park Lodge at Zion for the second annual Republican women's leadership conference. According to Lake County Chairwoman, Mrs. Richard C. Reed, Deerfield, who introduced the project during the conference morning session, Republican women's groups all over the county will be emphasizing the issue of inflation with an "LBJ Supermarket." The market display will spotlight the 18% rise in food costs from November 1963 to June, 1966, by comparing prices of over 2000 food items. The food costs are based on figures established by the U.S. Department of Labor.

The Lake County Republican Central Committee is making available to all clubs in the county, a "supermarket kit" consisting of a portable market, posters, bumper strips and literature. Mrs. Reed explained, "Every township will be alerted to the issue of inflation by the use of the supermarket, and we invite all housewives, regardless of party, to join us in our 'rebellion.'"

During the morning session, there was a panel discussion covering the topics: "The Telephone and Its Effectiveness as a Political Tool"; "Republican Stoppers—questions most often asked of Republican workers"; "Fund-Raising—Regular Organization and Volunteer"; and "Effective Candidate support". Panel members were Mrs. Reed, who is a precinct committeewoman in West Deerfield Township; Mrs. Virginia Kenney, president, Illinois Federation of Republican Women; Betty Wawirka, State Central Committeewoman from the Illinois 12th District and Jean Van Moss, president, West Deerfield Township Women's Republican Club. Don Duesler, administrative assistant to Congressman McClory, acted as moderator.

Following the lunch break, State Senate Majority leader Russell Arrington, Evanston, discussed state issues and the "Challenge of the 60's" to improve the basic quality of every citizen's existence. Sen. Arrington said, "Republicans are sincerely and totally committed to building a safer, stronger and more prosperous Illinois. Government can be restored to the people, made to serve the people, be limited by the people."

Mrs. A. L. Wanner, Glen

Presenting LBJ's Supermarket to the voters, are Mrs. Helen Burke, president of the Antioch Township Republican Women's Club and William J. Murphy, candidate for State Representative.

Ellyn, chairman of the Illinois Voter Registration Drive, discussed the vital need for total participation in the drive now under way. Mrs. Wanner drew attention to the fact that in Illinois the estimated population of voting age is 6,446,000. As of June 14, there were 5,563,333 registered voters of which

2,321,007 reside in Cook County and the balance of 2,741,746 live in the downstate counties. That leaves approximately a million people who are not registered, who should be registered. "Remember, they can't vote if they are not registered," Mrs. Wanner said.

Appeal for Funds For Retarded

Mrs. John A. Illeb, 4 Lake Drive, Antioch, will serve as area chairman in Antioch for the 1966 Retarded Children's Appeal. It was announced by the Illinois Association for the Mentally Retarded, appeal sponsor.

Fahey Flynn, WBBM-TV news broadcaster and appeal chairman, said 20,000 volunteers will march door-to-door Sunday, November 6 in Chicago and 34 suburbs to raise a goal of $125,000.

Contributions will be used in these communities to support non-profit day schools, sheltered workshops, nurseries, evaluation centers and summer day camps serving hundreds of local children and adults.

"Proceeds also will aid the 10,000 residents of Lincoln and Dixon State Schools," said Flynn, "through support of welfare programs conducted by the parents' associations of the institutions."

"This means more recreational and therapy equipment for Lincoln and Dixon cottages; a stepped-up campaign of volunteer recruitment and transportation services for volunteers from Chicago to the schools, and counseling for parents."

The appeal funds also will aid medical research and public education in known preventive measures.

Phone Book Cover to Be Chosen in Contest

Illinois Bell Telephone has announced a major competition to find a work of fine art for the front cover of its 1967 Chicago telephone directory.

The contest is open to artists throughout Illinois and Lake and Porter Counties in Indiana.

The entry chosen for the directory cover will receive a purchase award of $1,500. Two other entries will receive purchase awards of $1,000 each. In addition, several $50 honorable mention prizes will be awarded, the number to be determined by the judges.

In announcing the contest, J. B. Gable, Illinois Bell vice president and general manager, said the company decided to feature a work of fine art on next year's Chicago directory "because of our interest in furthering the cultural growth of the communities we serve."

He noted that the company believes a competition "is an excellent means to acquire the cover illustration because it will provide our artists with an opportunity for an added area of recognition." The winning entry will reach a vast audience, appearing on more than two million Chicago directories.

"The theme of the contest is Chicago—its beauty, its spirit, its people. We feel the subject is worthy of the efforts and talents of the many fine artists in Illinois and northwestern Indiana," Gable said.

The competition judges—three of Chicago's noted art authorities—are Charles C. Cunningham, director of administration, Art Institute of Chicago; Joshua Kind, professor, Institute of Design, Illinois Institute of Technology; and Joseph Randall Sha-pira, president, Museum of Contemporary Art.

The contest is being held with the support and cooperation of 13 art galleries in Chicago, as well as local art organizations.

Gable said entry forms explaining the contest in detail may be obtained from any Illinois Bell business office.

The forms contain a card which artists must mail to the company by November 14 to indicate their intention to enter. The actual entries, accompanied by an identification card also provided with the forms, must be received by January 30.

Judging will be held the week of February 6. Winners will be announced February 20.

After the contest, Gable said, "the entries selected for purchase awards will be

A bluewing teal by the Mason Co.

A mallard by Walter Evans.

A redhead by Elliston, and a canvassback by the Mason Co.

A redhead by Barto, 1880-1959.

A mallard hen and drake by Tube Dawson.

A pair of wood ducks by the Tru-Dux Co. Only 18 decoys were made by this particular company, and the other 16 are held by members of the company.

A hooded merganser duck by Hoerter.

A greenwing teal by Weeks, a living carver.

A pair of passenger pigeons. The passenger pigeon is now extinct.

A crude primitive on display, labeled W. E. Brook, is a slight falsification. Not really carved by President Bill, who is himself a collector of decorative decoys, Ben inserted it as a joke.

Each area and each carver had distinctive styles that help the collector to identify them. Some produced decoys with small bodies and vice versa. Others had distinctive styles of painting.

Most decoys were made for a utilitarian purpose, definitely made to be used. The ones now treasured by collectors were made by men with talent who took pride in their work.

Many of these treasures of early Americana are lost forever, but many will be preserved on collector's shelves, thanks to men like Ben they even sneaked up on sleeping flocks of ducks and used seven-barrel battery guns to slaughter meat.

Legislation ended this type of hunting in the 1920's, and forced all the decoy manufacturers out of business. So samples of decoys manufactured by each of these companies is of value.

Those early decoys were made of wood, some hollow, some solid. Ben prefers the hollow type. To anyone but a hunter, the decoys were a space-taking nuisance, and many treasures ended up in bonfires. "I travel all over looking for decoys," Ben says. "When I knock on a door, and an old man comes to the door, I know I may hit pay dirt. If a young man answers, I might as well be on my way, for when a man passes his decoys on to his son, the son invariably burns them."

Decoys are now made of plastic or styrofoam. They're actually better and cheaper, but not of interest to most collectors. Ben likes teal and mudhen decoys, most of all. The mudhen is a "confidence" decoy, much used by earlier hunters. Their use gave a natural appearance which gave the duck assurance that this was a safe spot to come winging in to feed or rest.

Modern hunters don't make an art of putting out decoys as their fathers did. Ben points out. "They don't have to. Their guns and ammunition are so much more effective that they don't have to lure the ducks in that close. Also they are not hunting for a living, and bagging a fowl isn't the difference between meat on the table tonight or going hungry."

Decoys made by men now living have no real value to the collector but are sometimes added to their possessions because of fine work or some oddity. Every collector probably has some odd pieces, which he keeps because they intrigue him. One such that Ben has is a wood duck, a sleeper, made of wood that sinks. Put in water, the decoy promptly sinks. Why, Ben has never figured out. Perhaps, for some obscure reason, the maker inserted lead in a hollow decoy. Ben has never opened it to find out.

Some of the decoys on display at the State Bank are the finest examples of the decoy-makers' art. The dates given are the dates when the respective decoy makers were known to be practicing their trade. The names of the makers, or dates, are never on the decoys. Collectors recognize the distinctive marks of individual carvers, or companies, and the dates they were in operation are known.

These are part of the display: a black duck by Harry Shourdes, about 1900.

A mallard hen and drake by Bert Graves, 1930.

A bluebill and redhead made by the Mason Co., 1885-1924.

A pintail by Robert Ellis.

He Hunts Ducks, Live And Decoys

Collectors are as many and varied as the articles they collect. But they all seem to have some qualities in common: dogged persistence, a deep appreciation of craftsmanship or artistry, and a love for the chase.

The State Bank of Antioch has been using the display window in the outer lobby of the bank to display portions of the collections of some local collectors. A gun display garnered from the collections of Jack Wells and Bill Wilton was the first venture. Latest display is some of the finest examples from Ben Shostak's collection of decoys.

Ben operates the Pine Lodge at Petite Lake during the summer. During the fall and winter he spends a good deal of time hunting wild fowl, both live and decoys.

He became a collector by chance. Through his love for hunting, he naturally acquired many friends, who were hunters. Some of them also collected decoys.

He helped his collector friends by turning over to them decoys that came to his attention. Finally, he decided to start a collection of his own.

That was about five years ago. Now he has a collection of about 300 decoys that he treasures, with a reserve pile of about 200 "junkers", decoys in which he has no interest.

Ben's "junker" pile often provides material for trades. In addition to the recognized "prize pieces" from the hands of well-known artisans, many collectors are particularly interested in specific types of decoys.

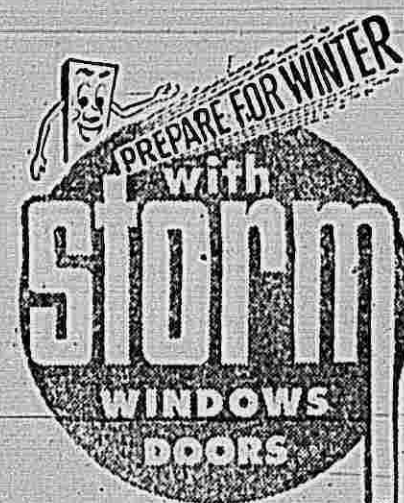

Ben has no interest in primitives, crudely carved wildfowl which some collectors treasure. He likes the graceful, beautifully carved and colored examples of the decoy-makers' art. So primitives, and other decoys that fail to interest him, are fuel for trading.

Part of the fun of collecting, Ben points out, is the "horse trading" that goes on between collectors. There are about 300 serious decoy collectors in the U. S. and he corresponds regularly with about 250 of them.

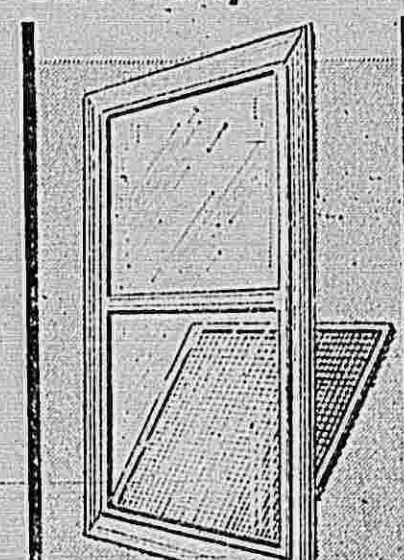

Word gets around that a collector has a certain item, perhaps one he covets. So Ben, knowing the type that interests this collector, takes a picture of one or more of the decoys he has for trade, and sends it to the collector. The other collector does the same, sending a photo of his prize. And the jockeying is on, with each trying to "trade up" to get more than he gives.

When the trade is completed, each is probably convinced that he got the best of the deal. And perhaps each did, for each has different interests, and duplicates of many items.

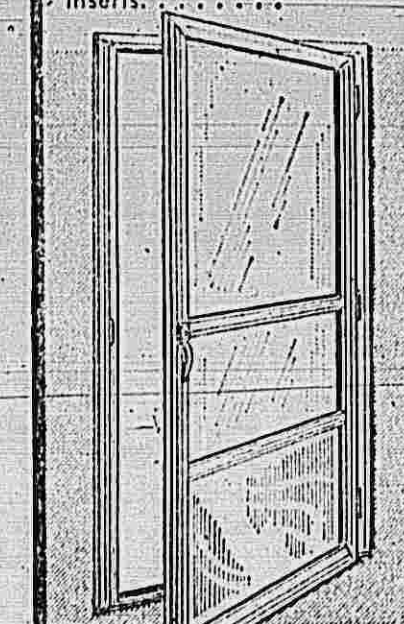

Ben likes old decoys, samples of the work of early artisans who were masters in their field. In those days, commercial hunters provided a big demand for decoys. Thoroughly unsportsmanlike,

Mail Overseas Christmas Package By November 10

Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien said today that a manual for winning the battle with the annual avalanche of Christmas mail has been sent to his field commanders, the nation's postmasters.

Mr. O'Brien also reminded mailers today that the best way to assist the Postal Service during the Christmas "rush" is to shop early, mail early and use ZIP Codes.

"It definitely is not too early to start putting your mailing lists in order," he said. "By organizing your Christmas mailing early, you help yourself to a happier and more relaxed holiday season."

The 60-page booklet gives postal employees guidance on everything from obtaining additional vehicles to window service hours.

The mobilization manual lists suggested mailing dates to assure on-time delivery of Christmas mail as:

Domestic surface mail—gift parcels for distant states by December 5, for near-by areas by December 14. Greeting cards for distant states by December 10, for near-by areas by December 15.

Overseas Surface Mail—should be sent no later than November 10.

Overseas air mail should be sent by December 10. Domestic air mail is suggested for the tail end of the mailing rush.

The Postmaster General reminded those mailing to servicemen in the Pacific area and Southeast Asia that small parcels weighing five pounds or less may be mailed at the domestic surface rate between the point of deposit and San Francisco. The packages will be sent by surface to the West Coast and by air on a space available basis to their final destination. The special issue of the Postal Bulletin places heavy Lecture on Christian Science at Mundelein H. S.

The healing power of divine Love will be brought out in a free public lecture on Christian Science to be given in Mundelein by Geith A. Plimmer, C.S. of London. Mr. Plimmer, a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, will speak under the auspices of Christian Science Churches in Lake County in Mundelein High School auditorium at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 16. His subject will be "Christian Science: The Discovery of the Healing Christ."

A native of Perth, West Australia, Mr. Plimmer was educated in New Zealand and at the University of Adelaide, South Australia. He withdrew from the teaching pro-emphasis on the use of ZIP Codes.

As for additional vehicles, the Postal Service may borrow from other agencies of the government; use surplus vehicles from storage or temporarily hire them. Generally, window service will be expanded where needed.

It's easy to place a classified—just call 395-4111.

do pennies make a difference in your food bill?

You bet they do.

And we should know.

We built our business by saving pennies for generations of folks like you.

For instance, take our policy on multiple-priced items.

If an item is priced 3 for 25¢, the price for one is obviously 9¢.

But what happens if you want two?

Do you pay 2 times 9¢ or 18¢?

Not at A&P.

We sell it at 2 for 17¢.

That's the fair way—the A&P way.

Yes, in the food business...

in food budgeting, pennies make a difference.

We watch them for you and for us.

Is this a good reason for shopping A&P? It's one of many.
